Lori Lowry and Amy Behun of the Cranberry Township Volunteer Fire Company unload food to be donated to a local food pantry.

Fred Herman, supervisor of Tilden Township in Berks County, and wife Debby volunteer their time to make chili for a soup kitchen run at Kennedy House in Reading.

Left and below: Employees of the Public Works Department in South Middleton Township, Cumberland County, set up a tent for COVID-19 testing at the Carlisle Regional Medical Center. Supervisor and emergency management administrator Ron Hamilton reached out to the hospital when the pandemic first hit to offer assistance and coordinate the effort.

Greg Weller of Montgomery Township in Franklin County serves as chairman of the board of supervisors, co-roadmaster, and emergency management coordinator for the township and in his “spare” time, as treasurer, assistant fire chief, and apparatus driver/operator at MMP&W Volunteer Fire and Ambulance Company in Mercersburg. He is pictured here at a dumpster fire late one night during a time filled with many COVID-19 challenges. He serves his community faithfully as one of their everyday heroes answering emergency calls at all hours.
